

An Evening with Dr. Elvis

Enjoy an evening of music, conversation and inspiration, as we present our Humanitarian Award to Dr. Elvis Francois during his special appearance and performance at the Sedona International Film Festival!

Doctor Elvis Francois “Dr. Elvis” is an Orthopedic spine surgeon practicing in Atlanta, GA. Having completed his residency in Orthopedic Surgery at Mayo Clinic, he went on to complete his Spine Surgery fellowship at Beth Israel Deaconess, Harvard Medical School.

Beyond his practice as an orthopedic surgeon, he has a unique passion for sharing his voice via uplifting music both in and outside of the hospital. Clinically, he has published many peer-reviewed scientific publications and lectured at national and international conferences on a variety of medical topics.

In 2018, he gained national attention for an impromptu rendition of “Alright” performed after a trauma call shift, and again after a cover of John Lennon’s “Imagine” promoting hope during Covid-19.

Since that time, Dr. Elvis has been featured on The Ellen Show, Forbes, Rolling Stone, Good Morning America, Today and The View, among countless other mainstream media appearances. Dr. Elvis also starred on the Smash Fox TV Show, The Masked Singer, and was praised repeatedly by another doctor, Dr. Ken Jeong.

He was also named to People Magazine’s sexiest men alive 2020. Furthermore, Dr. Elvis has performed live at the Indianapolis 500, Monday Night Football, The Presidential Inauguration and more. His music covers have amassed well over 10 million views on Facebook and Instagram, and in 2020 he produced an album of song covers that peaked at No. 2 on the iTunes charts and was in the Top 20 on the Billboard charts.

In another example of the size of his heart, 100% of the proceeds from his album were donated directly to a COVID-19 relief charity.

A Conservation Legacy: An Afternoon with Bruce Babbitt

Enjoy a screening of the Red Rock State Park film and a conversation with Bruce Babbitt.

Beginning with an introduction by former Arizona Governor and Secretary of the Interior, Bruce Babbitt, the Red Rock State Park film takes the audience through the history of the park from pre-historic times through the current day. The first half of the film features segments that focus on the natural and cultural history associated with the park property including the geological process that resulted in the rock formations that draw most visitors to the area, the native inhabitants of the Verde Valley, the homesteading and ranching era, and the transition of the property to State ownership. The second half of the movie describes the habitat protection and environmental education mission of the park and the many programs available to the public with narration by park ranger staff. Beautiful panoramic views of the rock formations visible from the park trails and close ups of the park’s native plants and animals throughout the film bring the audience closer to the natural world. This film was produced with the generous support of the Benefactors of Red Rock State Park.

Immediately following the film we will hear remarks followed by Q&A with Bruce Babbitt. Babbitt was Secretary of the Interior during the Clinton Administration (1993-2001), and Governor of Arizona (1978-1987). During that time he was a tireless advocate to secure and protect public lands. In Sedona and the Verde Valley, his efforts were instrumental in the establishment of Red Rock State Park, Slide Rock State Park and the Verde River Greenway State Natural Area while he was Governor. As Secretary of the Interior he helped establish the Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument among other federally protected lands. He currently serves on the boards of the Conservation Lands Foundation, the Amazon Conservation Association and as a Senior Advisor to the Babbitt Center for Land and Water Policy at the Lincoln Institute. Sedona is a special place because of its natural beauty, and environmental advocacy and protection is close to the hearts of many of our visitors and residents alike. You will not want to miss this special opportunity to hear from Bruce Babbitt!

Much of our population currently lives with hopeful delusions about climate change. These delusions, many of which are built in by evolution, hamper our ability to meaningfully address the problem.

Our brains evolved to solve short-term challenges for our survival. Climate change is a long-term challenge to our survival. Can we bridge the gap between these modes of thinking?

Emmy-nominated actor David Morse narrates the brutally honest "12th Hour" with insight from noted evolutionary biologists, climate scientists, cognitive researchers and psychologists.

The charming small towns and picturesque landscapes of Brown County, Indiana attract artists and seasonal tourists, but behind the scenes the community grapples with most widespread public health issue of our time.

Nearly every family, classroom, and workplace in Brown County feels the devastating ripple effects of heroin, meth, and opioid addiction. From the second-by-second panic of overdose to the slower deaths of despair, the ramifications of addiction run deep in America.

In "The Addict's Wake", one small, tight-knit community delivers piercing insight and critical perspective to an issue that impacts the nation.

In Brown County and throughout the United States, the stakes could not be higher. Hear from the teachers, law enforcement officers, and community leaders working hard to stem the tide of addiction. See the issue play out in courts, treatment centers, and faith-based programs. Come alongside a community searching for solutions and hope on the long journey from addiction to recovery.

Filmed over two years this is a powerful story of loss, hope and recovery for individuals in use, their families and a stunned community as a whole — One county illuminating an American crisis. "The Addict's Wake" shows the depth of the crisis, but also sheds light on a path forward.

In a dramatic attempt to bring awareness to the changing continent, an international expedition led by renowned explorer Will Steger embarked on the first-ever coast-to-coast expedition across Antarctica in 1989. Six explorers and their sled dogs braved howling storms, sub-zero temperatures, snow crevasses, and other perils as they traversed the icy terrain.

Now, thirty years since his groundbreaking expedition, Steger heads out on the ice once again — this time to the opposite end of the planet. Deftly weaving his contemporary journey with rare, dynamic footage of his original treacherous seven-month odyssey, "After Antarctica" is an urgent message spanning both poles.

Welcome to America: Where dreams come true...ish. A break from the traditional romantic comedy, "Americanish" highlights different layers of womanhood as they intersect with cultural and societal expectations.

"Americanish" invites viewers into the home and lives of three marriage-aged women as they navigate the often turbulent waters of romance, culture, career, and family. We follow the joys and tribulations of career-driven sisters Maryam and Sam Khan, and their fish-out-of-water cousin Ameera.

Set in Jackson Heights, Queens, New York, the film follows a relatable and endearing storyline offering a fresh perspective on classic rom-com tropes. "Americanish" delves into the complexity of trying to both honor and break from cultural traditions while balancing personal values and career goals in a society that does not always accommodate both.

Ascension

China | 2021 | 98 min • Documentary Feature

Director: Jessica Kingdon

Producers: Jessica Kingdon, Kira Simon-Kennedy, Nathan Truesdell

"Ascension" is an impressionistic portrait of China's industrial supply chain that reveals the country's growing class divide through staggering observations of labor, consumerism and wealth.

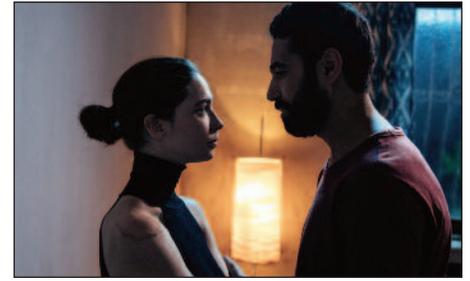

The documentary portrays capitalism in China across the levels of its operation, from the crudest mine to the most rarefied forms of leisure. Accordingly, the film is structured in three parts, ascending through the levels of the capitalist structure: workers running factory production, the middle class training for and selling to aspirational consumers, and the elites reveling in a new level of hedonistic enjoyment.

In traveling up the rungs of China's social ladder, we see how each level supports and makes possible the next while recognizing the contemporary "Chinese Dream" remains an elusive fantasy for most.

During World War II, millions of Jews from all over Europe are deported and killed in German concentration camps. When the German troops invade Norway, the Norwegian Jews feel safe and protected. But as the war escalates in Europe, the situation changes drastically.

One day, all the men over the age of 15 are arrested and taken to prison camps. Many of the women left behind are too frightened to escape and are desperately waiting for their husbands and sons to come back home.

On November 26, 1942, hundreds of Jews are picked up by the police and transported to the dock in Oslo. Unknowing and frightened, they are forced on board the awaiting German cargo ship "SS DONAU". The ship leaves Oslo with 532 Norwegian Jews; 302 men, 188 women and 42 children. The end station is Auschwitz.

"Betrayed" is based on the true story about the Braude family. An ordinary Norwegian family whose fate is sealed by the fact that they are Jews.

Director: Daniel Raim

Producers: Sasha Berman, Daniel Raim

Writers: Daniel Raim, Michael Sragow

Cast: Norman Jewison, Robert F. Boyle, Rosalind Harris, Michele Marsh, Neva Small, Topol

Featuring: Jeff Goldblum (narrator)

The fall of 2021 marked the 50th anniversary of "Fiddler on the Roof", the film Pauline Kael (The New Yorker) called "the most powerful movie musical ever made."

Narrated by Jeff Goldblum, "Fiddler's Journey to the Big Screen" captures the humor and drama of director Norman Jewison's quest to recreate the lost world of Jewish life in Tsarist Russia and re-envision the beloved stage hit as a wide-screen epic.

Oscar-nominated filmmaker Daniel Raim puts us in the director's chair and in Jewison's heart and mind, drawing on behind-the-scenes footage and never-before-seen stills as well as original interviews with Jewison, Topol (Tevye), composer John Williams, production designer Robert F. Boyle, film critic Kenneth Turan, lyricist Sheldon Harnick, and actresses Rosalind Harris, Michele Marsh, and Neva Small (Tevye's daughters).

The film explores how the experience of making Fiddler deepened Jewison as an artist and revived his soul.

A Crack In The Mountain

Hong Kong | 2021 | 115 min • Documentary Feature

Director/Producer/Writer: Alastair Evans

Cast: Hương Thiên Nguyễn Lê, Howard Limbert, Adam Spillane, Giang Hoàng Đăng, Bill Hayton

Deep in the jungle of Central Vietnam, lies a magnificent underground kingdom.

Hang Son Doong which translates as "mountain river cave", is the largest cave system on the planet and a place of spectacular beauty.

With more people having climbed Everest than visited Son Doong, its pristine charm has remained undisturbed for millions of years. In 2014 Son Doong's future was thrown into doubt when plans were announced to build a cable car into the cave.

With many arguing that this would destroy its delicate eco-system and the local community divided over the benefits this development would bring, the film follows those caught up in the unfolding events.

Beautifully shot and scored, "A Crack In The Mountain" is a powerful exposé about how both good and bad intentions can ultimately lead to one of the world's greatest natural wonders being trampled for money. As well as inspire those who care about our natural heritage to fight to protect it.

Director: Éric Besnard

Producers: Philip Boëffard, Christophe Rossignon

Writers: Éric Besnard, Nicolas Boukhrief

Cast: Gregory Gadebois, Isabelle Carre, Benjamin Lavernhe

Writer/director Éric Besnard's mouth-watering new historical comedy indelibly pairs Grégory Gadebois and Isabelle Carré as a gifted chef and his unlikely protégé, who must find the resolve to free themselves from servitude.

In 1789 France, just prior to the Revolution, gastronomy is strictly the domain of the aristocrats; indeed, the prestige of a noble house is entirely dependent on the quality and reputation of its table. So, when the talented but prideful cook Manceron (Gadebois) serves an unapproved dish of his own creation at a dinner hosted by the self-entitled Duke of Chamfort (C'est La Vie's Benjamin Lavernhe), the repercussions are brutal, and he is promptly dismissed.

The wounded Manceron swears off his passion and retreats with his son to a regional inn visited only infrequently by travelers, and where vegetable soup is the common meal. But when a mysterious woman (Carré) arrives and offers to pay to become his apprentice, the stage is set for a wildly enjoyable tale of reignited passion, mentorship and revenge — and of the creation of France's very first restaurant.

The Drover's Wife: The Legend of Molly Johnson

Australia | 2021 | 108 min • Narrative Feature

Director/Writer: Leah Purcell

Producers: Bain Stewart, David Jowsey, Angela Littlejohn, Greer Simpkin, Leah Purcell

Cast: Leah Purcell, Rob Collins, Sam Reid, Jessica De Gouw, Benedict Hardie, Harry Greenwood, Tony Cogan

"The Drover's Wife," an Australian revenge tale starring Leah Purcell (who also wrote and directed the film) is an adaptation of her successful Australian stage play of the same name.

A searing Western thriller, "The Drover's Wife: The Legend of Molly Johnson" is a reimagining of Henry Lawson's classic short story "The Drover's Wife." The story is set in 1893, and centers on the heavily pregnant Molly Johnson (Purcell) and her children, who struggle in isolation to survive the harsh Australian landscape after her husband leaves to go drive sheep in the high country.

One day, she finds a shackled Aboriginal fugitive named Yakada (Rob Collins) wounded on her property and forms an unlikely bond with him. Molly soon becomes the target of the suspicious lawman Nate Clintoff (Sam Reid) who sends an officer to her home. The encounter between Molly, the officer and Yakada turns deadly and results in a tragic chain of events with Molly becoming a symbol of feminism and anti-racism.

"The Drover's Wife" is a story that goes beyond borders and time. The issues explored within the film are still incredibly pertinent today and inspiring to those who watch it.

Willy can no longer hide his feelings for Marlena. The problem is Marlena belongs to a Mexican drug lord to whom Willy is employed, and an attempt to steal the boss's woman would have disastrous consequences. Willy tries anyway and succeeds in winning Marlena's heart, but the lovers are forced to flee for their lives to locations unbeknownst to each other but far from Mexico.

Marlena seeks refuge in Montreal with a family member, and Willy manages to find summer work on a Quebec farm picking lettuce. The only clue to Marlena's whereabouts is a locket from a Montreal jeweler she gave him before they parted.

The farm owners are kindly at first and Willy gets along with everyone, making it a suitable sanctuary in which he can use his few hours of leisure time to search for his lost love. However, his kind-hearted and naive nature soon lands him in trouble again after he is falsely accused of sexually assaulting the farm owners' daughter, L  a, who is desperate to escape farm life.

Exposing Muybridge

USA | 2021 | 88 min • Documentary Feature

Director/Writer: Marc Shaffer

Producers: Elisabeth Haviland James, Rebecca Pederson, Serginho Roosblad, Marc Shaffer

"Exposing Muybridge" tells the story of trailblazing 19th-century photographer Eadweard Muybridge, who changed the world with his camera. Muybridge set the course for the development of cinema when he became the first photographer to capture something moving faster than the human eye can see — Leland Stanford's galloping horses. He also produced a sprawling and spectacular landscape catalog, ranging from Alaska to Central America, Utah to California.

Artful, resilient, selfish, naive, eccentric, deceitful — Muybridge is a complicated, imperfect man and his story drips with ambition and success, loss and betrayal, near death experiences and even murder. "The machine cannot lie," Stanford declared of Muybridge's pioneering motion images. But what about the photographer?

More than a century after his death, Muybridge's photographs have never ceased to seduce cutting-edge artists, scientists, innovators, and general viewers alike.

Léa Seydoux brilliantly holds the center of Bruno Dumont's unexpected new film. She stars as France de Meurs, a seemingly unflappable superstar TV journalist whose career, homelife, and psychological stability are shaken after she carelessly drives into a young delivery man on a busy Paris street.

This accident triggers a series of self-reckonings, as well as a strange romance that proves impossible to shake. A film that teases at redemption while refusing to grant absolution, "France" is tragicomic and deliciously ambivalent — a very 21st-century treatment of the difficulty of maintaining identity in a corrosive culture.

Life & Life: A Story of Redemption

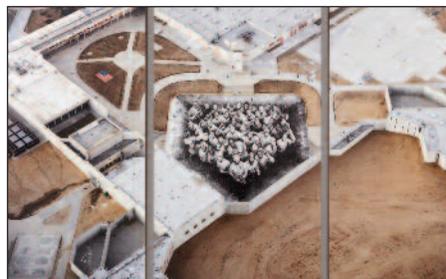

France, USA | 2021 | 80 min • Documentary Feature

Director: N.C. Heikin
Producers: N.C. Heikin, Nicole London, Jessica Wolfson

After serving 35 years in prison for murder, musician Reggie Austin faces an uncertain future back on the streets as he tries to rebuild a life, reconnect with his family, and armed with little else but his heart and his music, find a way to survive.

"Life & Life" tracks the journey that musician Reggie Austin takes to redeem his life following a murder conviction 40 years ago. With surprising honesty and depth, the film looks at Austin's effect on his fellow inmates and his efforts to reconnect with his family, as well as questioning parole and sentencing practices through his story. Ultimately, the film reveals the steep and dangerous hill ex-prisoners must climb upon release to free themselves and create a positive future. "Life & Life" is a story of the struggle for redemption and hope against near impossible odds, accompanied by a soundtrack that comes straight from Austin's heart.

What would Jesus preach in the 21st century? Who would his disciples be? And how would today's bearers of secular and spiritual power respond to the return and provocations of the most influential prophet and social revolutionary in human history?

With "The New Gospel", Milo Rau is staging a "Revolt of Dignity". Led by political activist Yvan Sagnet, the movement is fighting for the rights of migrants who came to Europe across the Mediterranean to be enslaved on the tomato fields in southern Italy and to live in ghettos under inhumane conditions.

The director and his team return to the origins of the gospel and stage it as a passion play of an entire civilization. In Matera, in southern Italy, where the great Jesus films from Pasolini to Gibson were shot, an authentically political as well as theatrical and cinematic "New Gospel" emerges for the 21st century.

A manifesto of solidarity with the poorest, a revolt for a more just, humane world.

When a tall, aging, shiksa icon meets a short Jewish "leprechaun" in a bird store ... what are the chances?

Mariette Hartley has been acting for over 60 years. She was nominated for five Emmys and won for "The Incredible Hulk". In addition, she has won 3 Clios, done Broadway, toured, shot hundreds of TV series, appeared in films like "Ride the High Country" and "1969" and who can forget those Polaroid commercials?

Unfortunately, "the business" being "the business", Mariette finds herself having to audition for people who have no idea of who she was (or is). And then she faced ageism: a tendency to regard older persons unworthy of attention or unsuitable for employment.

A friend suggests Mariette should have a significant other in her life and pressures her to tackle the dreaded online dating sites. Meanwhile, the "leprechaun" had a thriving voice-over career in New York, so naturally he moved to Los Angeles to do TV and film and hasn't worked since.

How they meet, how he wins her, loses her, and wins her, sounds like a familiar story, but with Peter MacNicol, Tess Harper, Morgan Fairchild, Bernie Kopell, Jack McGee, Peter Onorati, John Rubenstein, Mindy Sterling, Sam McMurray and Stu Pankin ... it isn't.

Peace by Chocolate

Canada | 2021 | 100 min • Narrative Feature

Director: Jonathan Keijser

Cast: Hatem Ali, Ayham Abou Ammar, Yara Sabri

After the bombing of his family's chocolate factory, Tareq Hadhad, a charming young Syrian refugee, struggles to settle into small-town life in Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Despite moving to a new country, he's intent on pursuing his dream to become a doctor. But when his father, Issam, insists that he must focus on survival, Tareq and his family move towards a different, but familiar path: Rebuilding Issam's chocolate business.

When what seemed like a nostalgic attempt to cling onto remnants of an old life past becomes an overnight sensation, Tareq is shocked. Put in the role of business manager, he must choose between the demands of an exponentially growing business and an offer to go back to medical school. New challenges arise between a rival chocolatier while the heartbreak of Tareq's sister left behind in Syria weighs heavily on the family. Nevertheless, Tareq remains set on his goals, buoyed by a supportive community of ecclectics.

As father and son both struggle to find common ground and navigate the complexities of family duty, the heightening tension between them threatens to tear the family apart. Based on the internationally recognized true story.

USA | 2021 | 84 min • Narrative Feature

Director/Writer: Jack Paulson
Producers: Jack Paulson, Charles T. Jones
Cast: Jill Holden, Madeleine Paulson

A stubborn, grief-stricken middle-aged woman is helped out of her spiraling decline, by a spritely and meta-physically inspirational teenage girl in the delightful crowd-pleaser "Peeky".

Los Angeles high-school drama teacher Beth Levine is asked to take some time off work due to her regular outbursts at her students. She insists that it's just the irritation from her broken ankle and from limping around on crutches. In fact, the moment she hobbles home to begin a six-week forced leave, it's apparent that there's more to her story.

While attempting to climb her front steps miserably, a light-hearted, quirky teenager, Peeky, materializes out of thin air to help. But that's the last thing that stubborn Beth wants from anyone. After a little coaxing, she agrees to let Peeky help her out for a few weeks to earn credit for college.

Peeky, is full of surprising quirks and meta-physical philosophies which Beth finds irritating. However, much to Beth's surprise, Peeky burrows into her heart and life suddenly seems less lonely.

Pie in the Sky

USA | 2021 | 83 min • Narrative Feature

Director: Maria Gobetti
Producer: Eric Ronn
Writer: Lawrence Thelen
Cast: K Callan, Laurie O'Brien

"Pie in the Sky" is a dramedy about two women, Dory (65), and her mother, Margaret (85), who live together in a mobile home in Abilene, Texas.

On this particular morning – Dory's birthday – Mama has awoken early with the over whelming need to bake her an apple pie. When Dory is awoken by the noise, she reluctantly joins her mother, and together they assemble the pie and chat. While she teaches Dory the old family recipe, Mama reveals some long-kept secrets that alter Dory's understanding of her past. But Mama defiantly justifies her need for secrets, suggesting that the truth isn't always what it is, but what people believe it to be.

Mama brings about a flurry of surprises for Dory's birthday; and as the pie comes out of the oven, Dory's world is forever changed.

A play that was adapted into an intimate, poignant, and often hilarious film, "Pie in the Sky" will leave you with a warm heart and craving a slice of a warm apple pie.

Germany, Israel | 2021 | 109 min • Narrative Feature

Directors/Writers: Doron Paz, Yoav Paz
Producers: Minu Barati, Skady Lis
Cast: August Diehl, Sylvia Hoeks, Michael Aloni, Nikolai Kinski

"Plan A" is based on the incredible true story of the "Avengers" — a group of Jewish vigilantes, men and woman, who after surviving the holocaust are vowing to avenge the death of their people — "an eye for any eye, a tooth for a tooth".

Max, a holocaust survivor has lost all his family in the camps. Full of rage and with nothing left to live for other than revenge he helps the Jewish Brigade, soldiers under British command, to off the record find and execute Nazis accused of leading positions in the Nazi system. When the brigade is called off, Max follows Anna and a group of former partisans to Nuremberg, where they soon realize that they will not find redemption in the upcoming Nuremberg trials.

Led by charismatic leader Abba Kovner, they formulate the biggest revenge operation in history — "Plan A". They infiltrate German water companies as undercover engineers with only one goal: to poison the drinking water in Nuremberg, Munich, Cologne, Weimar and Hamburg.

Since he was a child, Roman Lapshin has been haunted by a secret his late grandfather revealed to him when he was only 12 years old — a personal disclosure regarding the mysterious and troubling origins of thousands of pieces of missing artwork his grandfather had painted over his lifetime.

As long as he can remember, Roman has been obsessed with the burden of his grandfather's revelation, convinced that he alone must investigate and expose the murky fate of his grandfather's artwork to redeem his grandfather's name and artistic legacy. But finding the paintings will mean going against the wishes of his entire family — who has been guarding this secret all along.

It also means confronting the notorious and powerful man at the center of this secret whom Roman believes exploited his grandfather when he was a desperate, recent immigrant to a new country.

Refuge

USA | 2021 | 78 min • Documentary Feature

Directors/Producers: Erin Levin Bernhardt, Din Blankenship

"Refuge" is a story about fear and love in the American South. A leader in a white nationalist hate group finds healing from the people he once hated — a Muslim heart doctor and his town of refugees.

Chris is a husband and father, a veteran, and until recently, a leader in the KKK. He started hating Muslims when the planes hit the Twin Towers on 9/11, but is forced to confront his hate when he receives a text from Muslim refugee, Heval. The film illustrates the false promises of hate and reveals where real and lasting refuge is found. Where there is love, there is refuge.

"Refuge" is set in the most diverse square mile in America — Clarkston, Georgia — and follows a Syrian Kurd, a former Klansman, and a town of refugees who seek belonging in a country that blames them for its problems. Swimming against the current of an increasingly polarized and isolated America, each must decide whether they will risk knowing and being known by those who oppose them. Ultimately, "Refuge" uncovers what is possible when we leave the security of our tribes and what is at stake for our country if we don't.

Throughout history, rivers have shaped our landscapes and our journeys; flowed through our cultures and dreams. "River" takes its audience on a journey through space and time; spanning six continents, and drawing on extraordinary contemporary cinematography, including satellite filming, the film shows rivers on scales and from perspectives never seen before. Its union of image, music and sparse, poetic script will create a film that is both dreamlike and powerful, honoring the wildness of rivers but also recognizes their vulnerability.

"River" is a cinematic and musical odyssey that explores the remarkable relationship between humans and rivers. Written by Robert Macfarlane with music by Richard Tognetti and the Australian Chamber Orchestra (ACO) and featuring music by Jonny Greenwood and Radiohead and narration by Willem Dafoe.

Albert Speer is an enigma. The highest-ranking Nazi in Nuremberg to be spared the death sentence, Speer was one of Hitler's closest confidants and his chief architect, tasked with rebuilding Berlin as the capital of a global empire. As Reichsminister of Munitions, Speer was responsible for 12 million slave laborers. And yet, even now, he has the reputation of being "the good Nazi" – a myth he carefully constructed himself.

"Speer Goes to Hollywood" meets its protagonist in 1971, while Speer was working on a screenplay for Paramount Pictures, based on his bestselling wartime memoir "Inside the Third Reich". Based on months of audio cassettes, recorded by screenwriter Andrew Birkin, it features Speer's callous attempt to whitewash his past in a feature film. The audio narrative is supplemented by rare archival footage, taken before and during World War II and later, during Speer's retirement as a semi-reclusive country gentleman.

"Trust Me" is a feature-length documentary exploring human nature, information technology, and the need for media literacy to help people trust one another, bring them together and create a more resilient population.

The film shows how an avalanche of negative news and mis-information is making us all terrified of the world. This has led to mistrust of others, which further leads to racism, polarization, mental health disorders and even crime.

Sensational media take advantage of our survival instincts to earn more clicks and ad revenue with scary and shocking headlines – many of which aren't even true – and we're enabling them each time we share. When our fear goes up, our trust comes down. When people don't trust each other, they don't help each other and progress stalls. We become farther apart.

"Trust Me" covers emotional stories, interwoven with science and expert interviews to show us where the world really stands and the right way to consume and share media.

"Two Eyes" explores gender and love ... art and passion ... chasing after your muse ... and finding your true people along the way. The story follows three main characters in three distinct time periods.

A young artist travels to Montana in 1868 to paint the wild, untamed land. When he finds an unexpected love and discovers the gender fluidity that existed openly in many Indigenous tribes, his notion of self is forever changed.

A young photographer in 1979 is forever changed when a bold foreign exchange student comes into his life and introduces him to a new world where who he is ... who he chooses to be ... and who he chooses to love ... is accepted, honored and ultimately his decision alone to make.

A young trans musician in 2020 tries to take his life in a moment of utter despair and hopelessness. He ultimately meets his angel: a trans therapist who passes along the lessons she has learned about living life true to who you are — lessons she learned directly from the same characters we've met in 1979 and 1868.

The three characters' lives are interwoven into a cinematic triptych and become a single powerful story titled "Two Eyes" which takes its meaning from the way many Indigenous tribes understood, respected, and honored those in their tribe that saw the world with two eyes: one that looks out as a man and one that looks out as a woman.

Senior Prom

USA | 2021 | 14 min • Documentary Short

Director: Luisa Conlon
Producers: Jessica Chermayeff, Luisa Conlon

For so many high-schoolers, prom is a rite of passage in all of its love-filled, well-coiffed, abundantly photographed glory. But for generations of LGBTQ+ youth — especially those that grew up in the decades before Stonewall — prom has been emblematic of the exclusion from a world they could not experience as their authentic selves. But at Triangle Square, a haven for LGBTQ+ retirees in Hollywood, California, the idea of a "senior" prom has taken on an entirely new meaning.

"Senior Prom" celebrates our eldest LGBTQ+ generation who spent a lifetime fighting for the right to love openly and, via rich personal archives, retraces lives and legacies of resistance that helped change the course of civil rights.
